Guide to Completing the Bachelor of Education Self-Assessment Form

The Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) Self-Assessment Form is an important part of your UBC application. The Self-Assessment Form allows you to tell the Okanagan School of Education how you have satisfied the admission requirements of the pathway(s) you have applied to: Teaching Children and/or Teaching Adolescents.

If you are applying to both the Teaching Children and the Teaching Adolescents pathway, you must complete and submit both the "Bachelor of Education - Teaching Children Self-Assessment Form" and the "Bachelor of Education - Teaching Adolescents Self-Assessment Form".

Both forms include a table of the program's general admission requirements and a table of the pathway-specific requirements. Please fill out each table with the courses you have completed (and those currently in progress) that satisfy the admission requirements listed. Applicants applying to the French Pathway must also complete the language proficiency section found at the bottom of both forms.

General Instructions:

- Courses you have completed should be added under the "Completed" column and courses that are in progress should be added under the "In Progress" column.
- For each course, please indicate the institution where the course was completed, the course subject, and the course number using the following format: institution, course subject, course number. For example, if you completed MATH 100 at the University of Alberta, enter the course as follows: UofA MATH 100.
- For the 6 credits of English Literature and Composition, please list your final grade for completed ENGL courses.
- Applicants to the Teaching Adolescents pathway must identify their teachable(s) in the pathway-specific table of the form and list the courses that make up the required 24 credits in that area of study.
- Courses can only be listed only once in the Self-Assessment Form to satisfy the B.Ed. admission requirements.
